

Syncordis Announces New Office in the United Kingdom

Expansion in the region to serve financial services sector better

London, August 6th 2018 – Syncordis, the Luxembourg based Temenos consulting and implementation expert, and a wholly owned subsidiary of Larsen & Toubro Infotech (LTI) announced the opening of its new office in the United Kingdom to meet the needs of the Temenos client community in the UK, Ireland, Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

Established in 2004, in the last four years alone, Syncordis has implemented the Temenos T24 banking platform for thirteen customers and has undertaken numerous upgrade projects. London is known to be a global financial services hub and with its new office in the UK, Syncordis is committed to maintaining the high levels of specialised services and professionalism that clients of Syncordis Luxembourg and France have come to expect.

Guillaume Desjonqueres, CEO, Syncordis, said “We have been successful in Luxembourg and France because of our deep expertise on T24 and our solution accelerators that reduce implementation time for our customers. Our London office brings us closer to our customers in the UK region and also improves our ability to collaborate and leverage the vast experience of LTI in providing systems integration services to the T24 community.”

Pete Bottomley, Country Manager, Syncordis UK said “I am excited to be leading a team of experienced T24 specialists predominately based in London. By understanding their business drivers and systems landscape better, we can truly partner with our clients and provide the continuity they seek. “

Sudhir Chaturvedi, President Sales and Executive Board Member of LTI and a member of the Board of Directors of Syncordis S.A., said “Syncordis has a great reputation with banks and financial services organisations, undertaking complex T24 projects. Given our customer centric approach, opening of the London office will help bring together Syncordis capabilities with LTI’s domain knowledge and deep digital expertise.”

Syncordis UK office is located at 3 Sheldon Square, Paddington, London – which is also the location of LTI’s office in the UK.
